What's Next? Preparing Arts and Sciences Students for Career Success

The professional goals of students in the College of Arts and Sciences are almost as varied and unique as they are. It's no surprise then, that many students are overwhelmed by identifying their next steps. The Center for Career and Professional Success (Career Success) helps students in the College of Arts and Sciences with all aspects of internship and career preparation. Arts and sciences students who connect with Career Success can learn about career paths, network with alumni and other professionals, find a mentor, build competencies employers seek, take advantage of free career coaching and utilize basic resume and cover letter services... and that's just the tip of the iceberg.

Career Success is hosting a webinar at noon on September 23 that informed parents and families of Arts and Sciences students of how they can support their student's career goals. In this 45-minute webinar, a student from our college, a recruiter, and an alumni shared the ways students can be preparing for their lifetime of opportunity throughout their entire academic journey. This event is for parents of students enrolled in the College of Arts and Sciences. It will be recorded for viewing if you're unavailable to participate.
